SAFURDAY, JUNE 23, 1855.

A SOUTH SIDE VIEW OF SLAVERY, or Three Months at the South in 1854. By Nehemiah Adams, D. D. Boston: T. R. Marvin & Sanborn, Carter & Bazin. New York: J. C. Derby. 1855. This book, written by Dr. Adams, a Presbyterian clergyman of Boston, will be read with great interest. It deserves the attentive perusal of all, either north or south of Mason and Dixline, who feel any interest whatever upon the much agitated and far too inflammatory subject of slavery. Its publication just at this period is fortunate. If all would read it with the calm, candid, Christian feeling by which it appears to have been dictated, its effect would be like that of oil upon the troubled waters; it would prove the olive branch of peace to the Northern and Southern factions which are now assailing each other with threatening and ireful denunciations. In style it is easy, simple, chaste, and winning. No one who commences to read it will fail to peruse it throughout. There is a vein of practical philosophy running through this book which appeals to the understanding, and a spirit of Christian charity gleaming upon every page, which speaks directly to the heart. No Southerner will read it without feeling thankful to its author for its publication. No Northern man will give attention to its contents without being convinced of its truthfulness, and led to examine into the justice of his anti-slavery prejudices, while a sentiment of sympathy and charity toward the slaveholder will be awakened within him. It will be powerful to remove the bitter prejudices of its anti-slavery readers, and at the same time will bring consolation to the South that many, who are now violently opposing their peculiar institution, are "conscientiously persuaded of the truth and importance of their respective partial views of a great subject," and need only an enlightenment similar to that confeed upon the author to make them friends in-stead of enemies of the people of the Southern well, and is to continue to run in the Vicksburg States.

The author was one of those who signed the celebrated remonstrance against the passage of the Nebraska bill and the repeal of the Missouri subject of slavery, which dictated the anathemas against Southern institutions that have been hurl- since. ed from almost every pulpit in New England. He relates what he saw while in Virginia, South Carolina, and Georgia, and explains how agreeably disappointed he was at finding slavery as it is. He views slavery in two ways, as a christian and as a political economist. He admits that the temporal condition of the slave is, in many respects, far better than that of the free kansas, Iowa, Keutucky, Missouri, and Texas aside their wrath, to cease their insensate and the election in Maine occurs, and that of Veraggravating assaults upon the South. If we had room for them we would like to make frequent extracts from this work, particularly from the remarks upon the subject of the dissolution of the Union. The few pages devoted to that subject seem to us to contain arguments sufficient to convince the most violent Abolitionist of the errors of his ways.

A well-merited rebuke is administered to the authoress of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and other writers of that ilk. The author concludes with a cheerful, christian-like, charitable, earnest appeal to his countrymen to settle this dispute in a kindly and forgiving spirit, as members of one common brotherhood, and as children of one family, and expressess a strong hope contest between Gen. Rivers and Mr. Currin. that "God will not leave us always to contend together," but, in His own good time, will touch the hearts and open the eves of this people, teaching them more truly the real interests of the slave and a more proper and profitable conduct to each other. We hope the book will be extensively read.

A PALTRY TRICK EXPOSED .- It was announced that Ex-Lieut. Governor Boutwell, of Mass., presided at the meeting of the Know-Somethings at Cleveland. The following from the Boston Traveler of Friday exposes this trick to connect a respectable man's name with that movement:

COAL FIELDS .- From the following table, which is neither new nor strictly correct, it will be seen that the United States is the only country of the world in which coal chiefly abounds. When the coal of England shall have been exhausted, that of this nation will be comparatively untouched; and as fuel is the most necessary as well as the most potent agency in the development of national wealth, too much importance cannot be attached to the advantage this country possesses over all others in having so bountiful a supply of mineral fuel:

Areas of Coal Fields in the United States and Europe. SQUARE MILES. Pennsylvania, 15,437 SQUARE MILES. Michigan, Georgia, North Carolina, 150 Missouri, 150 6,000 Brit. America, 4.300 Tennessee, Kentucky, Great Britain, G. B. & Ireland, France, 13,500 8,139 Virginia, Maryland, 21,195 1,719 550 11,900 Belgium, Indiana. 7,700 Spain, 3,508 44,000

By this it appears that the coal area of Pennsylvania is greater than those of Great Britain, Ireland, and Spain, which together amount to 15,367 square miles. It is nearly three times that of France and Spain. It is greater than that of Georgia, North Carolina, Maryland, Alabama, Michigan, and Tennessee combined, or of Missouri, Michigan, and Tennessee combined, or of Indiana, Tennessee, and Alabama combined. It is surpassed by only two States of the Union-Virginia and Illinois-and approached by only two other States, Ohio and Kentucky. The States in the Atlantic division of the Union which do not produce coal are those of New England, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, and South Carolina. Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Iowa, and Wisconsin also do not produce any. Of these, all New England, New York, New Jersey, and Delaware are nearer to the Pennsylvania mines than to any other.

STEAMBOAT ACCIDENTS, ETC .- The steamer Northerner, which left St. Louis on Thursday evening for this port, knocked a large hole in her hull a short distance below St. Louis. Her officers managed, however, to keep her afloat, and she reached St. Louis safely with four feet water in her hold. She had 300 tons of hemp, which is badly damaged. The Northerner will undergo repairs at St. Louis. The boat as well as the freight were insured.

Molly Garth Sunk .- The Decatur and Chattanooga packet Molly Garth struck a snag on the night of the 15th, near Guntersville, breaking a large hole, from which she instantly filled and sunk in five feet water. The damage to the cargo was slight.

Steamboat Sold .- The steamer Southern Belle trade as soon as she is put in complete order.

POSTMASTER AT LITTLE ROCK.—Mr. Wm. F. and, the second reading being dispensed with, to meet again to-morrow evening, the 22d inst., at 8 o'clock, P. M. Pope was recently removed from the office of postmaster at Little Rock, and Mr. John E. Rearden appointed in his place. The Little Rock Gazette remarks on this act of Executive usurpation:

Out of the 2,500 citizens of Little Rock, not twenty could be found to favor Mr. Pope's removal from the office which he has so long and so faithfully and efficiently filled—discharging all of its duties in a manner satisfactory to the people.

A petition for his re-appointment was sent on to Washington, signed by nearly every citizen of the city to whom it was presented. An additional petition was gotten up, and signed by ninety-six out of the one hundred members of the last Legislature. These petitions were got and signed by persons who knew Mr. Pope and could testify, of their own knowledge, to the manner in which he discharged the duties of his office.

office. We understand that the almost unanimous petition of the people of Little Rock, and the late Legislature, were not regarded, but that the matter was turned over to Senator Johnson that the might make the selection. We would like to know by what rule the removal was made, and if the will of the people of Little Rock, and the Legislature of the State of Arkansas, has not been utterly disregarded? The people of Little Rock and the assembled Legislature of the 'tate, convened at the Capitol, appear to have no one to listen to "the proper of the baye." have no one to listen to their voice at Washington, in the choice of their own postmaster; but Mr. Johnson, who resides in Jefferson county— if he lives in the State—says who shall and who shall not be postmaster at Little Rock, though he is a non-resident, and not entitled to a vote in our county elections.

Tobacco.-The London Morning Chronicle says that tobacco is one of the necessaries of life in England; it is no longer a mere luxury, but enters into consumption among the masses, who are taxed severely for it. Great Britain levies a duty of £4,500,000, or three shillings sterling per pound on tobacco, making a tax of nearly 75 cents on each man, woman, and child in that kingdom. Twenty-eight millions of pounds are annually consumed in Great Britain. Of all the ornamental trees propagated among us, either foreign or native, there is none, in my judgment, more desirable than the tamarind. From the growth of some tamarind seeds which I obtained at a confectioner's shop some eight years since, I have a tree standing in my yard 18 inches in circumference. The past sea-son it perfected its fruit, which, in quality, was equally as good as that imported. The seed may be sown in drills about 4 inches apart, and covred from 2 to 3 inches deep with light rich soil.

They may be sown either in the fall or spring.

If in the latter, they should be exposed to the weather during the winter previous, in order that their hull or coverings may be acted upon by the frost. When grown to a height of 3 or 4 feet, the young trees may be transplanted in the sites where they are permanently to remain.

Pumpkins and Squashes of American Origin. The common field pumpkin (cucurbita pepo), as well as the squashes, properly so called, is believed to be of American origin, as will appear from the following remarks by Dr. T. W. Harris, of Harvard University, in Cambridge, Massachusetts:

Accident led me some four years ago to un-dertake the investigation of the history of squashes and pumpkins, which has led to quite interesting results. Most of the older and well-known species and varieties were by modern botanists supposed to have come originally from Asia, and particularly from India. This I have proved to be an error, and have shown that these fruits were wholly unknown to the ancients, no mention being made of them in the Scriptures, nor by Greek and Latin authors: the writers of the middle ages, while they describe or take note of other cucubitaceous plants, entirely omit pumpkins and squashes; and these did not begin to be known and noticed in Europe till after the discovery of America. Early voyagers found them in the West Indies, Peru, Florida, and even on the coast of New Engiand, where they were cultivated by our Indians be-fore any settlements were made here by the Europeans. The old botanists, who flourished during the first century after the discovery of the New World, or the West Indies, begin to describe them for the first time, and give to them specific names, indicating their Indian (American) origin. Here arose the mistake of modern botanists in referring these plants to the East

From a study of the history of the plant, I went next to the study of the species, with particular reference to their botanical characters. and to this end have been cultivating and examining every year all the kinds accessible to me. I think I have established the facts that all the fruits known by the names of 'pumpkins' and 'squashes' are of American origin; that there are three distinct groups of them; the first in-cluding summer squashes that have shells when ripe; the second, the winter squashes and pump-kins with deep, five-furrowed fruit stems; and the third, the winter pumpkins and squashes with short, cylindrical, and longitudinally-wrinkled (but not 5 furrowed) fruit stems. The last group was, probably, originally confined to tropical and sub-tropical parts of the western side of this continent, from California to Chili. The most esteemed varieties now cultivated in New England belong to this group, and the best of them are the 'autumnal marrow' and 'acorn there is reason the field of a translation, by a gentleman of our city, who is well known for eminent literary ability, to do the subject full justice.

From all we have seen or heard of the work, an able translation of it will, we are sure, meet with a degree of success second not even to Uncle Tom itself.—Sl. Louis Repb.

SWEARING A FENCE AROUND A GRAVE YARD .- The Okalona News, a Southern paper, proposes to put the swearing power of the people of that town to some good purpose. Here is his proposition, and it furnishes some wholesome rebuke of a very disgusting as well as wicked practice:

Our suggestion is that there be organized in this place an Okalona Cursing Association, for the purpose of raising funds for some useful object. The power of profanity which runs to waste in the streets is enormous; there is enough of it to bore an Artesian well in six months. A single objection, however, to that appropria-"God dam" power of our community is that none of our best swearers, that we know of, are experienced well-borers; and from the present scarcity of money arises the necessity of embarking in some enterprise in which the contributions could be paid in work, like our people's subscription to the railroad. This leads us to suggest enclosing of the grave-yard as a praiseworthy and practicable object.

Let every member of the association, whenev er he rips out an oath, be obliged to rip out a pail-ing, and whenever he curses any body, let him contribute a rail. We are well aware that the Bible forbids to "render railing for railing," but we are satisfied that the injunction has no more application to such cases as the present, than St. Paul's example of restoring a fugitive slave has to cases where the slave has a black skin. We don't know the amount of work requisite to enclose our cemetery, but we are satisfied that it is amply within the means of the proposed association to accomplish it. There were sixty-one votes polled at the late municipal election.

Some few of our voters do not swear (the Rev. Mr. A— and L—, for instance), but there are usually a number of accomplished swearers in town not yet entitled to a vote, and many of our boys can hold a hand with any of their seniors. All things considered, we think the income of the association might be estimated at half a dozen pailings a day from fifty regular contributors, which would pale fifty yards a day. A few court days would supply all the rails, and the Sunday cursing would be especially set apart as a post fund. The little boys, the "Cadets of Profanity," could find the nails who after the palur was completed the members who after the paling was completed the members who affect such phrases as "I'll be dogged," "dern my skin," "Jeemes River," &c., could white-

STEAMBOAT DISASTERS .- We copy the following from the St. Louis Intelligencer of Thursday:

Two Steamboats Sunk-Total Loss of the Belle Golding and Express.—Arrivals yesterday from below bring news that the sternwheel steamer Belle Golding struck a snag on Monday at Devil's Island and sunk to her hurricane roof. She run out of the channel to run a dangerous chute, and before she proceeded far struck a snag which penetrated the hull, tearing a huge gap in her bottom, and causing her to go down in fifteen She was bound from Pittsburg to St Louis with a cargo of the usual description from that section, and had a coalboat in tow, on which the crew and passengers took refuge; and it is thought no lives were lost. The N. W. Graham brought up a number of her passengers. The boat and cargo will be a total loss. She was owned by Capt. Thomas H. Golding, her commander, and insured at Pittsburg. She was a very neat and substantial boat and less than year old.

The Amazon, from St. Joseph, reports that the Express struck a snag near Spar Island, or the 15th and was sunk to her boiler deck. She was bound from Council Bluffs to St. Louis with Amazon took off a lot of her freight, rigging, furniture, &c. The Express belonged to Capt. H. D. Smith, her commander, who purchased her recently for $5,500. She was an old boat, and had seen hard service.

striking, if not a gratifying fact, that the silly slanders and maudlin philanthrophy of Ameri-can Abolitionism was finally rebuked, and the tide of unhealthy public opinion produced by Mrs. Harriett Beecher Stowe's book turned, in Germany. For, without wishing to be severe, it is but justice to say, that all works of fiction hitherto produced in this country tending to counteract the pernicious tendencies of "Un-cle Tom's Cabin," were below mediocrity—gotten up on the spur of the moment, and intended merely for a run on the Western steamboats. But a novel just published in Germany, from the pen of the German "Boz," Mr. Hacklaend-er, an author equally distinguished as a dramatist and a writer of fiction (now being republished in the literary department of the Anzeiger, in this city), it would seem, has laid Mrs. Stowe and her book completely on the shelf.

Judging solely from the opinions of the Brit-ish press, and the synopsis of the work thus af-forded us, Hacklaender's "Slave Life in Europe" is the most powerful novel, not only ever produced in Germany, but surpassing in interest, descriptive force, and moral force of subject, all similar works of the day. Its reception in Germany was unprecedented, and, notwithstanding the unusually high price put on the book ($4 50, we believe), its second edition is now being issued from the press, an almost incredibly large. issued from the press, an almost incredibly large first edition having been exhausted in the course of a few months. The book, withal, seems less intended for one connective narrative turning into one great plot, than for a succession of striking tableaux, illustrative of European society in all phases and grades, from royalty down to abjectest pauperism, harmonized into a whole, by the ristory of a few principal char-

Uncle Tom's Cabin and its illustrations of "Slave Life in America" form evidently the inducement to the work, and are constantly introduced for comparison. The German author's skill herein is represented as incomparable; and the cheap philanthrophy of abolitioism and the sickly vaporing of Mrs Stowe and her European compeers, including the Duchess of STTH-ERLAND and her suite, are laid utterly prostrate. The comparisons, finally, which it is left for the reader to make between white slaves in Europe and black slaves in America, are resistlessly tending to silence the fanatical ebulitions of those pious fanatics and would-be world-revolutionizers who, deaf to the voices of squalid misery and wretchedness around them, would extend their far-reaching benevolence, mainly consisting in a "sympathetic tear," across the ocean—be it either from sinister motives of their wn, or from an amiable weakness of confining their trade in philanthrophy to the cheapest ar ticle in the market.

From the great compass of the book, and the difficulty of rendering such a work into English, it is hard to say how soon a translation will render it accessible to the American public; bu from an intimation which we have lately had. there is reason to suppose that arrangements may shortly be effected for a translation, by a

THE FRAZER CASE.-The Lexington Observer of this morning says:

The testimony in the case of the Commonwealth vs George Gregg and Mrs. Elizabeth Frazer was brought to a close on Tuesday evening, the argument to the jury commenced on Wednesday morning, and concluded yesterday Wednesday morning, and concluded yesterday (Friday) evening. The case was very ably and elaborately argued by Nat. Wolfe, Esq., of Louisville, James B. Beck, Esq., of this city, and S. Noland, Esq., Commonwealth's attorney, in behalf the Commonwealth, and by Francis K. Hunt and R. A. Buckner, Esqs., of this city, and James F. Robinson, Esq., of Scott, in behalf of the defence.

The DEATH OF W. L. RUSHTON (the only Rushton ever

CLARK who went to Newfoundland to superintend its manufacture, and he is the only Druggist who ever went from the U. S. for that purpose, and as he will continue his supervision be particular to see that the signature of HEGEMAN, CLARK, NEWS ITEMS.

The English papers received by the St Louis mention a report, said to be founded on good authority, that the Empress Eugenie is expected soon to give an heir to the imperial throne of France.

In the first district court of New Orleans, on the 16th, James Castello, Daniel Callaghan, John Shields, and Patrick Kennedy were sentenced to be hung, Patrick Haggerty and Richard Scott were sentenced for life, and John Johnson for 18 years to the penitentiary. Appeals were taken in the cases of Castello, Kennedy, Scott, and Johnson.

According to the Acapulco correspondent of the New Orleans Deita, the revolutionists are gaining ground. Alvarez had placed Gen. Comonfort at their head, who had routed the Government troops in several engagements and captured a convoy of $160,000. Col. T. R. Wheat was about to join the "liberal army" with the rank of General. One of Hoe's printing presses had been set in operation and a paper advocating the cause of the revolutionists had been started.

THE NEWS BY THE ST. LOUIS.

Progress of the Allies in the Crimea-Further Successes—Operations of the Squadrons in the Baltic—Close of the Vienna Conferences—The Austrian Circulars—Illness of the King of Prussia-Insurrection in Spain, &c.

The United States mail steamship St. Louis, from Havre via Southampton, arrived off quarantine, New York, about 91 o'clock Tuesday evening, and reached her dock at 11. The St. Louis left Southampton on the 6th inst.

[Correspondence of the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser London, June 5, 1855.

The critical position of the Russians in the Crimea becomes daily more apparent. Since the departure of the steamer of the 2d, further news has arrived of successes in the sea of Azoff, which have not only annihilated the pow er of the enemy in that region, but have probably exposed the entire Russian army to a peril as imminent during the approaching heats of summer as that which fell upon the first Napoleon in meeting winter at Moscow.

The latest report from Sir E. Lyons, the British Admiral in the Azoff, reaches to the 2d inst., and states, that, since the occupation of Kertch and Yenikale, and the shelling of Arabat, the squadron had secured the Crimean coast as far as Yenitchi, and had attacked that important town, which commands the Russian communications with the Crimea from the mainland by way of the Putrid sea. A body of seamen and mariners were sufficient to drive the Russian forces from the place, and, this being ef-fected without any other loss than that of one man wounded, the whole of the depots and vessels laden with corn and supplies for the Russian army were forthwith entirely destroyed.

So complete and rapid has been the blow that. since the squadron entered the Azoff, four war steamers and 240 vessels engaged in carrying provisions destined for the army before Sebastopol have been destroyed, either by the allied cruisers or by the Russians, in despair of sav-ing them. It is also added, from the coast of Circa-sia, that the Russian garrison have evacuated Soujek Kaleh, having first set fire to the place, and destroyed 60 guns and 6 mortars.

whole of this information is at present merely telegraphic, and we must wait ten days or a fortnight for the actual details, which will be the more interesting owing to the small amount of reliable knowledge hitherto possessed regarding the Russian position, on the ex-tensive waters of which they have been thus suddenly dispossessed. Meanwhile, the satisfaction created is rendered doubly intense by the bloodless yet dashing character of the whole operation, and the fact that the English officers in command of the expedition, Admiral Lyons and Gen. Sir George Brown, are both men on whom the public at home have all along placed the greatest reliance.

After Whitsuntide recess, Parliament reassembled last evening, to renew the discussion on the war and the manner in which the Government have conducted the Vienna negotiations. The wordy disquisitions of the so-called peace party have, however, completely lost even the little interest they possessed before matters had assumed their present encouraging appearance. This party nevertheless still numbers a good many members from both houses, owing to the hetrogenous materials of which it is composed namely the opponents of all wars, even wars of defence, a section represented with remarkath e admirers of absolutism, represented by Lord Ab erdeen, Mr. Gladstone, and other members of the Peelite party who have lately been forced to resign office—and, finally, the financial specul, ators and promoters of railway and other schemes, who would jump even at political hu-miliation if it would but temporarily restore the money ma rket to a condition to enable all sorts of shares to be brought out at high premiums. Of the three ser 'ions, the last is the most extensive and powerful, although its motives are the meanest. The reneral voice of the public, how-ever, is stronger than that of the whole of these people combined, and there is a growing sense that, notwithstanding the difficulties he has had to deal with, everyth ing has gone right since Lord Palmerston has been at the head of affairs, and all attempts to embarrass or displace the Ministry are certain at p.resent to prove abor-

At Constantinople, the intrigue which lately resulted in the displacement of Redschid Pasha seems likely to enjoy but slight success, as his return to office with greater power than ever is expect-ed almost immediately. In Spain, some anxiety prevails, at various threatenings of a new Car-list outbreak—which is probably being actively fomented at Rome.

If it were possible for Russian mendacity to receive any additional exposures, a Miniserial statement in Parliament, last night, would have that effect. In a deliberate manifesto issued about a fortnight ago, the Czar announce ed that Captain Watson, in notifying the block-ade of the Baltic, had enforced measures totally opposed to the rights of neutrals as recognize the British Government last year. It is not usual in the diplomatic or parliamentary world for one government to charge another with direct falsehood, but in dealing with such func-tionaries as Count Nesselrode there is no escape from it. Consequently, last night the First Lord of the Admiralty found himself obliged, in an swer to an inquiry, to announce that the resentations of the Russian Government of course pursued by Captain Watson were totally at variance with truth, and indeed without a pre-text that could have afforded the shadow of a cent extraordinary buoyancy. Consols at the last date were quoted at $91\frac{1}{2}$, ex dividend, and they have since touched 92. The closing price this evening, however, is again $91\frac{1}{2}$.

SPECTATOR.

Paris, June 5, 1855. The French press at last confesses the improbability of obtaining any material aid from Austria. The semi-official Pays thus says:

"We shall attain our object with or without the cooperation of any other power; we shall conquer a peace under conditions wholly satisfactory, and as we shall have alone borne the burden of the war, we alone shall derive glory

I mentioned last week a rise of two francs upon breadstuffs. Since then a further rise of 6 francs has taken place. This is owing in part to manœuvres of speculators, who managed to creat a panic about the shipment of flour to the Crimea, and partly to exaggerated statements of the damage done to the crops of the year. The weather continues as unfavorable as it is possible to be; the rains are constant, and flannels and winter clothes are indispensable to-day, the 5th of June. The prefect of police has not dared to raise the price of bread, as he must have done, had it not been decided to let the city resume its payment of the difference—very slight one to be sure, only one mili a pound Serious fears are now entertained lest the vest be so late as to cause a gap of a fortnight or three weeks between the exhaustion of the present supplies and the new flour.

Since my last, we have had several franc days at the Exposition, and one four cent day. Neither of them has entirely fulfilled the expectation of the Company, though they pre-sented a marked contrast with the previous dol-lar days. Of one of the latter there were just 150 paying visitors at the Fine Arts. 60,000 persons were present on Sunday, the first four sous day.

The Presse, in an able article on the electric telegraph at the Exposition, gives the superiority to Morse's system, and hopes to see it adopted throughout Great Britain and Europe.

Adelaide Ristori, the Italian tragedienne, is achieving a success utterly without precedent in Paris. Society has never been so absorbed in an actress before, audiences have never been so marvellously stirred, and the feuilletons have never recounted such triumphs and such effects. The French are very proud of their own stage, but the critics do not hesitate to set up Ristori for a model, and to advise Rachael to take lessons from her. Ristori is at this moment, in the belief of the Parisian beau-monde, the first living actress in the world.

Horace Greeley has been in prisoner for over 24 hours! He was arrested on the suit of an exhibitor of sculpture and such articles at the New York Crystal Palace; some of his wares were damaged and broken, and he came down on Greeley as a stockholder and director, and therefore responsible. The unfortunate victim of this outrage remained in durance over Sunday, but yesterday obtained a hearing, and of course immediate deliverance. Mr. Greeley is justly indignant at what has happened—confinement at Clichy, the debtors'-prison, for parts of Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, upon grounds so frivolous.

COLUMBUS.

THE WAR—The Siege of Sebastopol.—The correspondent of the London Times, writing from the English camp before Sebastopol, May 22d, the latest date of correspondence by mail,

The cholera has not made any considerable progress, and the cases which have occurred are considered by the doctors to be only spasmodic. The cases generally occur in the trenches, the heat and nastiness of which are inconceivable The smell of the precincts of the batteries is overpowering and horrible. The scarcity of water becomes more formidable every day.

I understand that the sanitary commissioners have enunciated an opinion, formed on scientific geological grounds, that there is no reason to apprehend any want of water; but it is nevertheless true that the watering of the cavalry horses, as I am informed, is now ac-complished with difficulty, and that two days ago the watering was not finished till evening, so scanty was the supply.

There is now no deficiency in any article as far as I can learn, and no army was ever so amply and luxuriously provided. The amount of ot, shell, powder, and destructive missiles of all kinds, stored at our military depots or actu-ally in the batteries, is very great, and it is amply sufficient to enable us to bombard Sebastopol for a fortnight from guns of a greater cali-bre, placed very much closer to the enemy, than we have yet been able to open upon them.

As to the operations of the French army, nothing is known with any certainty. Their en-gineers keep an accurate journal of the siege, which will no doubt see the light in some time to come, but any attempts to describe their mining operations, their says, or engineering works are worthless and absurd, simply because there are no means of getting at the facts. General Canrobert was kind enough to give me a pass to the trenches some time ago, and I availed myself of it to visit them on two occasions recently. I am even allowed to enter the gallery leading to one of the mines, but I found that the engineers though extremely courteous and kind, were no at liberty to speak of the future, even to their own officers of other branches of the service. The operations which have been described as the springing of mines have chiefly been the explosion of globes of compression, and their effect in front of Bastion No. 4 (Flagstaff advanced battery) has been to bring the French too near the enemy, for they have been annoyed by grenades in the lodgments without being able to advance materially from their position. All our own batteries are in admirable order and the effect of our fire from the second paral. lel and from the advanced batteries will be tremendous, though our losses from the enemy' fire at the shortened distance must be proportionally greater than it has been. Hitherto we have made little use of carcasses, a kind of shell perforated with three holes, out of which the internal composition burns fiercely, firing whatever it comes in contact with, and giving forth intense light. The Russians, on the contrary, have used both carcasses and fire balls freely, and have derived considerable advantages from them in their nocturnal attacks, as they were shrouded in darkness.

There was a plan, some time ago, propose by an engineer, to save us from surprises. It consisted of wires placed at the distance of a few feet from poles fixed in the ground, and so arranged as to set fire to blue lights on being touched. For some reason or other the project text that could have afforded the shadow of a foundation. The publicity of this correction will give Russia another mortifying proof that her machinations are too late for an age in which her machinations are too late for an age in which the press is a leading power.

The Russians have within the last ten years to enflade the Russian works to any extent, owing to the ravines and the skill of the Russian at one of its narrowest points, which connects at one of its narrowest points, which connects are too late for an age in which has not been carried out. We have been unable to enflade the Russian works to any extent, owing to the ravines and the skill of the Russian at one of its narrowest points, which connects

I need scarcely say that the statements which have appeared in some of your contemporaries respecting the establishment of batteries within 180 or 200 yards of Malakhoff are not correct. There is no parallel armed with mortars or heavy guns within twice that distance of the place indicated, and the fact of the Mamelon being 560 yards in front of it (nearly due south of it), sufficiently proves the absurdity of these assertions. Our nearest parallel in front of the left attack is more than 500 yards from the enemy's works, and there we nust stop, because the Woronzow road runs below the cliff toward which we have pushed our works at the bottom, and the ground is so steep that no earthworks can be formed upon it.

At one portion of this attack, however, where our lines incline toward the North to meet the French, we made a curve which brings us nearer to the enemy, but the ground is unfavorable for the construction of batteries. On the right attack front, our lines have been advanced close to the enemy's centre approaches, but the latter are considerably in front of the Mamelon and Round Tower. It is said that one of the privates of the 48th regiment has given some very valuable information respecting the terrain of Sebastopol, and has corrected a serious misconception under which our engineers were labor ing respecting the course of a creek in front of attack. The man had been for some years in Russia, and as a stone-mason he labored at the works of Sebastopol, and knows every street in it. He pointed out the position of the terminus of the water-works, and of the engine working it, and it is now stated that there are no less than 100 guns, all hid from view, defending these works, and raking the Redan, so that had we assaulted and carried that formidable work we should have met a fire on which none of our officers had calculated.

The following letter has been received from the French camp before Sebastopol, under date of

At length we are on the eve of great events; every thing is prepared. The last arrangements have been made in a council of war, at which Generals Canrobert, Pelissier, Bosquet, Lord Raglan, Omar Pasha, Brown, Della Marmora and Admirals Bruat and Lyons were present All our reinforcements have come up, and, if my information be correct, the army amounts to 200,000 men.

Two divisions are going to the Tchernaya.

It is supposed that it is the advanced guard of the expeditionary army, for when a simple re-connoissance is made it is not usual to take 100 guns. The whole of the cavalry is in move ment. The Russians are going to be attacked at every point. It is supposed we are about to take possession of Simpheropol in order to cut off the communication with the Sea of Azoff and the rest of the peninsula. In this manner the Russians will be obliged to accept battle. 60,000 French are to take part in the expedition. The enthusiasm of the troops is difficult to describe.

The sanitary condition is excellent, and our troops could not be better prepared to undertake an affair so important. 15,000 of the best troops of Omar Pasha have come here; Egyptians troops have taken their place at Eupatoria. The Sardinian troops are magnificent. They will, I assure you, be worthy of the allies, by the side of whom they are to fight. Gen. Canrobert has done an ac which has obtained for him a higher place in the esteem and hearts of the soldiers than if he had won a victory. Gen. Pelissier takes the command under the most favorable circumstances. He enjoys in an equal degree the confidence and esteem of the soldiers.

Operations in the Sea of Azoff—Capture of Genitchi.—The Moniteur of June 4th announces that the Minister of War has received the following dispatch from Gen. Pelissier:

CRIMEA, June 2, 10 P. M. Advices received from Kertch, dated the 31st of May, announce that, on the refusal of the military authorities of Genitchi, situate on the northern extremity of the tongue of land of Arabat, to give up the government stores and 90 vessels laden with provisions for the Russian army in the Crimea, the squadron, under the orders of Captain Lyons, bombarded the place, drove out the troops, and destroyed all the

[From the London Times, June 4.] The operations of the allied fleets in the sea of Azoff continue with unabated energy and success.

Our success has not cost the squadron a sin gle life, one man only having been wounded at Genitchi.

Russia is prodigal of men, and she has more than once threatened and attempted to over whelm the gallant bands which have invaded her territory, by the multitudinous hosts of her armed serfs. The loss of stores, of food, of wealth, and of the means of transport is a greater calamity to the Czar than the defeat of an army; for, indeed, of what use is an army, sistance can it offer, if prived at the very outset of this campaign of the means of subsistence?

But although we have not yet invested Sehas topol in the proper sense of that term, we shall soon have invested the Crimea, and when the supplies are cut off, the greater the force of the enemy may be in that country the less able will he be to maintain it there.

The occupation of the Sea of Azoff is an un-paralleled display of the means of destruction possessed by the squadron. Under the orders of Sir Edmund Lyons and Admiral Bruat they entered the Straits of Yenikale and landed an army in a position which paralyzed the forces of the enemy. The vessels of small draught then instantly proceeded to enter the Sea of Azoff, into which no foreign vessel of war, and probably no trading vessel above the size of a corn brig, had penetrated—a sea resembling a shallow lagune, the brackish waters of which are lost in the surrounding marshes.

Across this sullen basin, which the ancients called a marsh, and which the most recent travelers who have visited it compare to a reservoir of pea soup, our steamers ploughed their way. In 24 hours Berdinask was visited, at a distance of more than 100 miles from the Straits, and on the following day Arabat was shelled. We had foreseen, and had mentioned some days ago, upon the first arrival of this news, that Genitchi would be one of the first points of attack, because it commands the strait between the mainland and the tongue of Arabat, and also the communication between the Putrid Sea and the Sea of Azoff. It is therefore a point of the greatest consequence for transport both by land and water, and we are not surprised to find that the Russians had accumulated there very large quantities of stores for the army.

The Strait of Genitchi, across which there is a ferry, is said to be not more than 60 fathoms wide; but it is deep, and it serves to carry off the waters of the Putrid Sea into the Sea of Azoff. the waters of the Putrid Sea into the Sea of Azoff. Of the Putrid Sea itself or Sirwash (as it is properly called), scarcely anything is known, and it is wholly unmarked by soundings in any charts that we possess. It appears, however, to present considerable analogy to the lagunes which encircle Venice, and, though it may be inaccessible to steamers of war, we do not despair of ships' boats performing a service in these waters which might be of the most essential importance to the campaign.

the Crimea with the main land by a wooden ridge about 200 fathoms in length This military road, lying between the Isthmus of Perekop and the tongue of Arabat, is more practicable for an army than either of vo natural communications, and nothing would be more fatal to the Russians than the destruction of the wooden bridge which com-pletes this line of communication. The dis-tance from Genitchi to the bridge cannot be more than 20 or 25 miles. We are of course ignorant of the depth of water there may be in the lagunes, but if it be sufficient to float the boats, and we hold the entrance to this inland water, there is no reason why the destruc-tion of this road should not be attempted.

The War in Asia.—A despatch from Lord Raglan announces that Captain Moore arrived at Kertch on the 2d of June, from Circassia, with the intelligence that Soudjak Kaleh was with the interingence that Sadajan Alein the evacuated on the 28th of May. The Russiat had burned the principal buildings and abandoned 60 guns and 6 mortars, having first rendered dered them unserviceable.

Advices from Constantinople to May 24 state that General Williams was on the point of completing the fortifications of Erzeroum, and was then to fortify Kars. The Russian troops that were expected at Tiflis had been sent off to the Crimea, and in consequence great apprehensions were entertained in Tiflis of an attack by Schamyl and the Turks.

Naval Operations in the Baltic.

OFF CRONSTADT, May 28.

general belief of many persons who ought to be informed on the subject is, that acve operations against the enemy are about to be undertaken; but, lest their nature should be made known through the medium of the press-the principal source from which, since the com-mencement of the war, the British people have derived any information—the utmost reserve on all that relates to the plans of the present campaign is practised by the supreme naval author-ities in the Baltic, under the questionable impression that the promulgation of them to the public would tend to the advantage of the Rus-sian government, by enabling it the more effectto thwart the offensive measures that are to ually be adopted.

The report that Austria, under day of the 25th of May, has issued another circular, is confirmed. We have not yet received the text of this new circular, but the following letter from Berlin contains the substance of it:

The new Austrian circular of the 25th of May has produced an immense effect. It could not be otherwise. Although in this circular Austria promises to remain faithful to her engagements, to maintain the "four points," to preserve an armed attitude until the moment when negotiations may be resumed, and to make her last propositions, if accepted at Paris and London, the object of an ultimatum to Russia if accepted at Paris and although this and other similar declarations are made in this document, which will probably be the closing act of the Vienna negotiations, least provisionally, it is equally certain that it betrays the intention of Austria, should her propositions be rejected, to assume an expe line of policy. Any impartial reader of this document will come to this conclusion.

Letters from Berlin, of the 1st inst., state that the successes of the allies in the sea of Azoff have made a deep impression there. is observed that the large proportion of cavalry in the Russian army will cause the stoppage of supplies from the countries of the Don to be felt with peculiar pressure by the enemy.

On the 23d ult there were 190 cases of cholera at St. Petersburg.

Sardinia.—The Piedmontese Gazette of May 31 contains the royal decree designating the various religious corporations to be suppressed, in accordance with the provisions of the act of accordance with the provisions of Parliament lately passed to that effect. From this list there are two orders of nuns exempted, from motives, it is said, of personal regard.

The clerical papers assert that many monks and nuns have decided to reject the terms offered by the Sardinian Government of an annuity, and that they will seek refuge in convents of their order in some land where religion and justice are held in more esteem than in Piedmont.
